FESS CHAIRMANSHIP EMERITUS TYPE

Actual Campaign To Be Di-

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Republican fortunes in the oncoming congressional campaign are to be entrusted to a wholly new and untied directing personnel.
The shake-up in the administrative organization of the party,
just completed by party leaders,
is the most sweeping in many years.

Claudius Huston, storm center of one of the queerest rows the G. O. P.
has ever had, steps down as national chairman on Aug. 7. He will be succeeded on the same date by Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio, probably the most regular of all the Republican regulars.

Emeritus-Chairman
But Fess' chairmanship is to be of the emeritus type. It has never been considered quite the thing for a sitting senator to be the active party chairman, because chairmen
must solicit and produce contributions, and legislators aren't supposed to do that, at least openly.

The active chairmanship of the party will devolve upon Robert H.
Lucas, now Internal Revenue Collector, who is to be given the title of chairman of the national executive committee. Lucas is a Kentuckian, only recently come into national politics.

Thus the Republican organization
is to model itself upon the Democratic organization, which also has a chairman-emeritus in John J. Ras-koff, and an active, energetic chairman in J. Edgar Hoover.

It has been the effectiveness of the reorganized Democratic machinery, as

PA NEW OBSERVES

Saw a rather peculiar sight yesterday afternoon. A pair of little girl twins, with their mother, was walking down Jefferson street. Several yards behind was another woman,
leading another pair of girl twins.
Twins must be abundant.

While the grownups swelter at their daily toil these days, the kiddies are having the time of their lives. With improvised showers have been built for them, and with as few clothes on
as possible, they disport themselves
under the cooling drops, until they get weary of it.

These are great days for the ice cream vendors. Beyond a doubt, more ice cream and soft drinks have been sold during the past week than in a month heretofore this summer. Unfortunately, we can't all sell ice cream.

Pa New observes that the giant sycamores along North Mercer street are shedding their bark. This is an annual custom with them, and soon
the upper branches will bear a nice
coat of green, which will thicken and
turn brown as winter approaches.

The extreme dry weather of the past few weeks has caused the trees to shed their bark. This is an annual custom with them, and soon
the upper branches will bear a nice
coat of green, which will thicken and
turn brown as winter approaches.

Drunken Driver Held By Police, Child Is Killed

Two Men Under Influence Of Liquor Drive Car Into Crowd Of Children,
Killing One

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 26.—Two men driving in an automobile that plunged into a group of 20 children, killing one and seriously injuring four others,
were to be turned over to the coroner today. The man who, police said, sold the liquor they say the men in the car had been drinking was to face a charge of keeping a disorderly house in police court today.

The driver of the car, Frank Kubiszewski, 30, and his companion, Frank Novak, 31, were chased for five blocks after the accident before being caught. The stock boy's unconscious body was on the bumper of the car
the whole distance, police said. Kubiszewski when caught, according to police, was so drunk he could not walk.

Both men told police they work in a steel mill and that they were celebrating a day off.
Steve Halligan, 52, was identified by Kubiszewski as the man who sold
the liquor, police said.

ORGAN RECITAL WILL PRECEDE

Fresh from a two years' exploration trip in that bleak and desolate ice land at the South Pole where heart-

most ingenious men, Paul Siple, personal orderly to Admiral Richard Byrd, comes to New Castle Sunday night to paint word pictures of that history-making expedition.

Scout Paul will motor from Erie
during the afternoon for an address at the Cathedral auditorium in the evening. His appearance here will be under the auspices of the Croton Methodist Episcopal congregation, whose pastor, the Rev. Clifford S.
Joshua, arranged for the engagement.
An organ recital by Edwin Lewis,
starting at 7:30, will precede the service itself which is scheduled to open promptly at 8 o'clock. No admission whatsoever will be charged, all expenses being paid out of the silver offering that will be lifted during the evening.

Presiding over the program will be
Rev. Joshua, who as a former asso-

Income Tax Rates May Be Restored To Aid Treasury

Old Federal Income Tax Rates
May Be Restored To Prevent Treasury Deficit

PROGRESSIVES FIGHT DECREASE

Could Restore Old Rates
Without Sanction Of Congress Is Reported

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 26.—The old federal income tax rates, which were slashed $160,000,000 last December,
will be restored next fall, administration leaders admitted today, unless there is a decided boom in American business conditions during the late summer and early fall.

Restoration of the old rates will take effect without congressional action, since the tax slash was a temporary one and only affected 1929 incomes, payable this year. It would require an act of congress to continue the reduced rates another year and administration leaders will oppose
this move, unless prosperity returns.
Several factors will prevent continuation of the reduced taxes, with increased federal expenditures vying with reduced revenues as the principal cause. In the last fiscal year, ending July 1, the federal government's ordinary expenditures totaled $4,177-941,000. This was a sharp increase over the preceding 12 months. On top of this, President Hoover expects ordinary expenditures to exceed $4-200,000,000 during the current fiscal year.

Far Too Small.
The president's estimate may prove far too small, since congress appropriated close to $5,000,000,000 during the last session, principally for expenditure in the 12 months ending next July 1. Some of these appropriations will not be spent at once but the bulk was appropriated for the current fiscal year.

To match this increased cost of government, federal revenues will have to be increased sharply or the government may face a deficit at the end of the current year.
Secretary of the Treasury Mellon recently announced he feared a deficit of $100,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year due to the extraordinary expenditures on federal projects, such as river and harbor improvements,
good roads and federal buildings.
The progressive bloc in the senate
meanwhile will fight any lowering of federal taxes. Some of their members voted against the slash last De-

Reconstruction Work Starts In Earthquake Area

Minor Tremors Renew Fear
That Series Of Temblors
May Not Be Over

GERMANY REPORTS SLIGHT SHOCKS

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service Staff

ROME, July 26.—Grimly determined inhabitants and relief workers of the earthquake devastated region in South Central Italy, blanching occasionally as new minor oscillations
shudder the ground and tumbled weakened structures into the dust,
joined forces today in a superhuman
battle against starvation and disease.
Heartened by the presence of King Victor Emmanuel and the government's overwhelming progress in its efforts to bring order out of chaos,
the nerve shaken population of the ravaged communities quietly accepted its food and water rations and rolled up its sleeves to work side by side with the army of relief.

King Visits.
Feverish brows were wiped long enough to extend welcome to his majesty, a short little figure in fatigue uniform. His tour through the con-vulsed zone inspired new confidence, and for the first time since the tragedy hundreds of the sufferers mormentarily lifted their curtain of sorrow to survey the damage with an appraising eye. Many conjectured on the early reconstruction of their homes and firesides.

Quick to sense this note of encouragement pulsing through the afflicted territory, Premier Benito Mus-solini's ministry made all efforts to foster a new courage where it is needed most. It was announced the government had contributed $1,300,000 for initial relief work, and the Bank of Italy $26,000.

(International News Service)
DUISBURG, Germany, July 26.—
Residents of Altstadt, a suburb of Duisburg, were thrown into a panic
today by an earth tremor which threw pictures from walls and plates
from shelves in scores of homes.

No damage was reported and there were no injuries. Many residents fled into the streets when their homes shook with the quake. With Italy's disaster, fresh in their minds, the populace feared that Germany might be visited by a similar catastrophe.

No further tremors followed the initial shock, however, and the town
soon returned to normal.

GENERAL SUMMERALL HOSPITAL PATIENT

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—General
Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, is a patient at Walter Reed hospital.
Physicians said he is suffering from a "mild digestive disturbance" that his condition is not serious and that he will be able to return to duty within a few days.
Summerall entered the hospital last night.

Improvements At Fair Grounds Being Rushed For The Opening

A new fair ground will greet the eyes of New Castle and Lawrence county folk who throng to the New Castle Fair on August 5, 6 and 7, as workmen today were hurrying to completion an extensive program of improvements launched about three weeks ago.

Determined to have every exhibit building and all of the fencing newly painted in time for the opening but nine days away, workmen were flinging paint brushes in the speediest way.
Carpenters were busy repairing exhibit sheds for the coming of farmers' products early next week.

would do credit to any county fair,

Steen Cautions Against Use Of Shallow Wells

Contamination Probable In Wells Of Less Than Forty Feet In Depth

REPORT TWELFTH CASE OF TYPHOID

Dr. William L. Steen, health officer for the city today reported that an additional case of typhoid fever had been reported to him during the past 24 hours, the patient being Carmen Annable, 10 years old, living at the rear of 310 Home street. Discovery of the case made the twelfth with one fatality.

In an effort to acquaint the citizens with the caution they should use to avoid typhoid the city health officer issued the following bulletin:

"People should not drink water from neighborhood pumps. No shallow well in the built-up section of the city is safe. It may be contaminated at any time.

"No well less than 40 feet should be considered safe. The civil engineer state that all sanitary sewers leak, and the leakage is between 10 and 15 per cent of the volume passing.
"This leak seeps through the soil and sooner or later will contaminate
any shallow well in the vicinity.
A well which has been in use for many years and has always been good water may become contaminated anytime and become a source of typhoid fever."

In explanation of the foregoing warning Dr. Steen pointed to the well at 303 East Lutton street as an example. He said it had been used by the neighbors in the community. It was situated at the rear of the Palus home.

"It was beneath an arbor. It was cool, floored with cement and most inviting. The water sparkled and the Palus were proud of the water. They allowed neighbors to obtain water from it and look what happened!"
said Steen.

Dr. Steen said: "The city health officer advice is to drink city water.
It is filtered and sterilized. The water company keeps a trained chemist at the pump-station who gives his entire time keeping city water pure and safe."

The health official said that the springs at Cascade Park have been examined by him and state health authorities and that all the springs are safe and pure.

When the typhoid was discovered
many tests of well water were found.
Previously some springs and wells had been closed.

The discovery of the fever in the East Lutton street district resulted in the closing of the well at 303 East Lutton street from which afflicted
persons had contracted the fever.

Sanitary policemen are keeping an alert eye open for violations of the quarantine ban, and Orders of City Health Officer Dr. Steen are being obeyed.

Serious Damage From Drought

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 26.—Serious damage to the drought to corn, potatoes, tomatoes, cabbages and apples
in the tri-state district was seen today by Henry R. Eby, farm agent. He pointed out in addition that some forest trees are already shedding their leaves two months ahead of schedule.

(Special To The News)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 26.

today was congress appropriated
some money for foreign embassies
to entertain on, but for not liquid entertainment.

Meat and bread and cigars up to 10 cents, and also flowers sent to dead countrymen was allowable as a deduction. But if the ambassador has a little extra
"embassing" he wants to put over and decides the fermented grape will be an asset, he has to make out his monthly swindle sheet as overestimating his capacity to celebrate the Fourth of July."

the information to this effect did not such paving and for the assessment of such against abutting property

Services To Be In Charges of Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell,
Pastor Of Epworth

FORMER PASTORS WILL TAKE PART

New Edifice Located At Corner Of East Washington And Butler Avenue

Another epoch in the splendid history of Epworth Methodist Episcopal church will be marked Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, when the corner stone of the new church will be laid at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue. For this impressive service, fraught with more than ordinary meaning to the members of the church, Epworth has called back one of her own sons, Rev. Norris
A. White, district superintendent of the Jamestown District, who will deliver the sermon of the day.

The laying of the cornerstone in the new Epworth M. E. is the beginning of the realization of a dream that has long since occupied the minds of the members. For many years it was felt that the present
church site on Pearson and Epworth streets had passed the peak of its usefulness.

Merge with Grace M. E.
Over a year ago the members of Grace M. E. felt that the time had come to go back to the mother church, Epworth, and a merger of the two was completed. This for the reason that the field for Grace M. E.
had moved from the South Side and it was felt that the merger would be of mutual advantage.

With the influx of the members from Grace M. E., the need for a new Epworth was enhanced and steps were immediately taken to commence work. Headed by Reverend Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the church, the members laid their plans,
and after careful preparation the new building was started. The site at East Washington street and Butler avenue was chosen because of two factors, first the present site of Epworth is not large enough, and second, it was felt that the new site would be better suited for the expansion of the church.

The services Sunday afternoon will be in charge of Rev. S. L. Maxwell, pastor of the church, but many other Methodist pastors will be present to assist. Laymen will have their part in the service and every department of the church will have some recognition in the service. With pleasant weather prevailing it is felt that several thousand will be present for this happy occasion, and Epworth invites the public. In the event that rain should interfere the services will be held in the present church, and following the sermon the crowd will sojourn to the new site, there to lay the cornerstone.

Milk Prices In Cleveland May Be Boosted Up

Face Milk Famine Or Increase In Price Due To Competition

SHIPPING MILK TO PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 26.—That this city is facing a milk famine or an increase in the price of milk because of competition from Pittsburgh for milk produced in eastern Ohio was seen here today as the result of recent activity of the Dairyman's Co-Operative Sales Company, of Pittsburgh.

P. S. Brennan, president of the company, speaking at one of a series of organization meetings in Burton, Ohio, was reported as saying:

"We are now selfishly interested in helping to straighten out the Cleveland milk market because we have 1500 members shipping milk to Cleveland every day."

Dealers here said that this straightening out of the market would mean that the price of milk would go up one or two cents a quart here. Milk retailing here now for 12 cents a quart was said to be selling for 14 cents in Pittsburgh. Many farmers who formerly sent their milk to Cleveland are shipping it to Pittsburgh, it was said.

When the Ohio Farmers Co-Operative Milk Association entered the retail field there was left no bargaining co-operative which milk farmers in this territory might join. The Pittsburgh Co-Operative, seeing an opportunity to enlarge its field and bring prices in the two cities to parity, quickly acted.

Officials of the Pittsburgh company are scheduled to meet with a number of Lorain county farmers next week. The company is said to have 20,000 members now, 13,000 of whom ship milk.

Hanna Removed To Walter Reed Today

Carl Hanna, local war veteran and former fireman, was removed today from the Marine hospital in Pittsburgh to the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C., where he will receive further treatment.

Mr. Hanna has been suffering from arthritis for some time, and it is expected that his stay at the Washington hospital, will result in an improvement in his condition.

Miss Anna Fife, of Canonsburg, Pa., has concluded a visit here with Mrs. Martha Alcorn and gone to Franklin, Pa., for a few days visit there with friends.

You're the JUDGE

A well-stocked stream coursed its way through two little villages in two different states.

A fish dealer from the easternmost village, Tubbs by name, was engaged in preparing for the market different kinds of fish and especially one under his own brand. Another fish dealer in the western town, whose name was Skarry, was engaged in catching and supplying Tubbs with the fish which Tubbs marketed. Eventually they entered a written agreement by which Skarry was to supply Tubbs with whatever quantities he needed. But after Skarry had so supplied the fish for a time he suddenly stopped all shipments. And when Tubbs asked about it he was simply told that no more would be forthcoming.

So Tubbs filed suit. At the trial Skarry answered that he had discovered that Tubbs, hearing of a great demand for a certain type of fish, had been labeling most all of his fish falsely so as to take advantage of the demand, and that he, Skarry, objected to being a party to a violation of the law.

Tubbs insisted he had the contract and wanted it fulfilled.

How would you decide this? Make up your mind before you read the answer. (Decision will be found on classified page.)

DRASTIC CHANGES BY REPUBLICANS IN PARTY MAKEUP

demonstrated in the last session of congress, that moved the Republican leaders to follow suit in arranging the new set-up.

Confidence Lacking
It is no secret that Republican leaders face the November elections with anything but confidence. They can not possibly hope to increase their representation in either house or senate because it already is at the highest peak attainable. The best that can happen to the Republicans is to hold what they already have, and no one believes that is possible in this year of spotty business depression, agricultural distress, and dissatisfaction with general conditions in many quarters.

Some of the more pessimistic G. O. P. chiefs privately concede a strong possibility of losing control of the house, although it would require one of the greatest turn-overs in history to accomplish that. The present house has a Republican majority of 103, which would require the Democrats to capture some 52 or 53 seats to control. That many seats have never changed hands in a single election since 1922, the year of the great Republican split.

With wheat selling at the lowest figure in many years, however, and other commodities far down the price list, and with general business conditions what they are, the loss of many Republican seats is conceded even by the Republicans themselves.

"Pendulum Year"
Also, this is what is known as a "pendulum year," the year between presidential elections when the pendulum always swings against the party in power.

The prospects of a spectacular Republican row accompanying the shift of control in party machinery has all but evaporated. For a time, while the anti-Hustons were endeavoring to oust the chairman, it was reported, that the much-harassed Tennessee would step down only at the price of tearing the lid off many party secrets. He was resentful at what he considered "a raw deal" and the understanding is that it required powerful persuasion to dissuade him from rattling some party skeletons that have been in the closet since 1928.

The last word, however, is that Mr. Huston is to retire gracefully, and wish his successor all kinds of luck. The Capital cynics say he will need it in November.

Monks get the most fun out of life. They aren't afraid somebody will think them monks.

and his parents well. Assisting him will be other ministers of the city who have accepted Rev. Joshua's invitation to take part.

The evening's program follows:
Organ recital at 7:30 p. m.
Opening of service at 8 p. m.
Hymn—"O God Our Help in Ages Past."
Scripture reading—Rev. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church.
Prayer—Rev. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church.
Hymn—"Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me."
Offertory—"Ave Maria," Schubert.
Introduction of speaker by Rev. Joshua.
Address of evening.

Postlude—"Festival Toccata," Fletcher.
The program for the organ recital by Mr. Lewis at 7:30 follows:
"Chorale" (Suite Gigue)—Boellmann.
"Suit for Organ"—James H. Rogers.
Prelude.
Intermezzo.
Pastorale.
Toccata.
"Andante Cantabile" (fourth organ symphony)—Widor.
"In Summer"—Lemmens.
During the evening's service Mr. Lewis will preside at the console.

Arrangements for welcoming Paul at New Wilmington were completed today and Rev. Joshua said probably 30 automobiles would carry members of the Croton church there to meet him. The party will leave the church at 4:30.

Arrival of Scout Siple, Mayor Joseph Williams of Erie, Paul's mother and father and other relatives and friends, who will drive through, will be awaited at the college town. Informal greetings will be exchanged when the guests arrive, after which state highway patrolmen will take the lead on the New Castle trip, with the car bearing Paul following after. Other cars will follow the procession.

Scout Siple and his party will be quartered at The Castleton from the time of arrival up until he leaves for the Cathedral service. Rev. Joshua will be his host during his stay here.

As to the scout's speaking ability, Rev. Joshua said today that he is a most remarkable speaker for his age. While he has only spoken on two other occasions since returning from the trip, his speaking experience has not been limited to this. Siple was a speaker in college and other affairs before leaving on the expedition.

Visiting Delegations.
Surrounding districts are expected to send delegations here tomorrow night, with indications pointing to a capacity audience. Different churches have suspended their services for the occasion.

Not in a great while has such an opportunity been given residents of the community to hear a speaker who brings a message of this kind, one which promises to bring out all the thrills and exciting experiences of the south pole expedition.

Siple was chosen from thousands of Boy Scouts all over the country to represent that great youth organization on the trip. His assignment became personal order to Admiral Byrd and both occupied the same quarters together during their stay there.

INCOME TAX RATE MAY BE RESTORED TO AID TREASURY
cember and proposed to spend the surplus, then in the treasury, on aiding agriculture. Since then the federal farm board has been given $300,000,000 for farm relief, of which probably $75,000,000 has been expended.

Greater Revenues.
The tax slash, which benefited taxpayers during the present year, included $70,000,000 for individual incomes and $90,000,000 on corporations. If the slashed taxes are not continued, the next year individuals will pay the old rates of 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4,000, 3 per cent on the second $4,000, and 5 per cent on the balance, while the corporation tax will revert to 12 per cent on all incomes for 1930.

Administration leaders meanwhile hope for greater federal revenues this fall due to a recurrence of business prosperity. They also hope for greater revenues under the new tariff bill, believing that imports will be considerably increased by fall, even at the higher rates. One Republican leader, however, minimized the effect of tax reduction.

"Only one per cent of all the people pay any federal taxes direct," he said. "Indeed, only about 2,500,000 of our 130,000,000 people pay anything to the government. It means more to the great mass of people to have the federal government spending money on harbor facilities, river improvements, farm federal buildings, new roads and farm relief than to reduce taxes."

One of the most clever things Young Pa New ever saw is the swimming hole built by several young men of the South Side down Big Run creek. They erected a dam to keep the water to a certain depth and it is very strong. They have decided to call the dam "Schuller's Dam," in honor of Officer Fred Schuller.

Pa New observed a great number of tourists passing through the city this morning, bound for various vacation points. One machine bore a Washington license and a Spokane name plate. Quite a long way from home.

Young Pa New saw a rather unusual sight Friday, three young men hanging on the running board of an automobile with only their bathing suits on.

On a machine downtown Friday Pa New saw a license tag "EE13."

Tomorrow the New family will have Paul Siple as its guest. New Castle has the distinction of being one of the first cities to pay him honor, in fact only New York and his home city of Erie are the only two visited so far. The Cathedral auditorium should be filled to greet him. At 7:30 an organ recital opens, while the meeting proper starts at 8.

STAR LORE UP WHERE SUMMER NIGHTS ARE SHORT

By ARTHUR DEV. CARPENTER
GOING NORTHWARD to a parallel of latitude as far from the equator as Seattle, about 47-4 degrees, the nights during longest summer days, are exceedingly short. Sufficient light lingers to see to read a newspaper after the hour of 9 p. m. Twilight lingers long, and dawn comes early. The reason for this is that Seattle is so far north toward "the top of the world," near the zone of continuous polar day, that the sun skirts along just under the northwest horizon for hours after it goes down, and again is just under the northern horizon a very long time before it comes up. At Edmonton, Alberta, 53-2 degrees north, summer nights are still shorter.

IMPROVEMENTS AT FAIR GROUNDS ARE BEING RUSHED

into the grounds probably by Wednesday of next week. From that time on the grounds will begin to fill up and by Saturday most all of the sites will be taken. One concession booked Friday will utilize the ground from the grandstand to the entrance, a space that has never been filled in previous years. That company alone will bring 20 different exhibits and six different types of rides.

Officials point out that never before has a more attractive program been arranged. Every day there will be something different with a special style show and revue as a feature each evening. The style show and revues will be under the personal direction of Carroll Kearns, local producer, who supervised the musical revue "Parr," given at the Cathedral some time ago.

Special amplifiers will be arranged for the evening style show and revues so that the grandstand audience may enjoy the best of hearing arrangements. They are expected to be placed within the next few days.

Special attention is being paid to the race track and from now on until the opening of the course will be sprinkled with water each day. A new fence has been constructed around the track to keep spectators from walking about at will.

Prices Down
Grandstand prices will be somewhat lower this year, 25 cents being charged for admission to the bleachers in the afternoon and 50 cents for the grandstand proper. In the evening, for the style show and other performances, admission to both will be a quarter.

Free acts will be presented daily at the grandstand under the direction of Lieutenant Scava's Gendarmes. Included will be a half-mile Roman standing race, with three teams entered. There will be broad and high jumping horses and a horse that makes a hurdle over another horse, with a rider, to thrill the audience.

All in all, arrangements for the New Castle Fair have never been so elaborate. Never before have such improvements been made to afford such an attractive place for visitors, and seldom ever have indications pointed to such an enthusiastic and universal support by the people of the county.

"FORCE" ORDINANCE FAILS; HOLDS UP NORTH STREET JOB

the city clerk to notify the council that the ordinance was a "force ordinance" which requires a four to one vote before a "force ordinance" can be adopted.

Needs Four Votes
A "force ordinance" according to the interpretation of the city clerk is "one which has not been petitioned for by the property-owners." The fact that it was a "force ordinance" was not mentioned during the council session.

Today Councilman Burns said he understood the situation and Solicitor White stated that Mayor Gillespie had communicated with him and asked if the ordinance had passed. Solicitor White ruled it had not.

It is reported that the mayor is willing to vote for such an ordinance providing the North street property-owners pay for any damages. Councilman Burns, it is reported occupies a similar position.

Before any work can be done in North street it will be necessary for council to pass an ordinance such as was presented for final vote and acted upon Friday. The contract has been let for repaving of the old portion and one has been passed for reducing north sidewalks to grade.

Solicitor White stated that no contract has been let for the grading of the sidewalks on the north side. It is along here that the mayor and Councilman Burns expects the damages to occur. The situation is complicated somewhat and the history of the proposed improvement of North street extends back to 1927, according to ordinances.

George Bancroft and Mary Astor in a Scene From Paramount's "Ladies Love Brutes".

George Bancroft, the mighty thriller, is coming to the Capitol theatre again. This time the burly Bancroft, who has become a man among men in screenland, will be seen and heard as Joe Forzani, the steel worker who fights his way to success as a building construction contractor.

The picture, "Ladies Love Brutes", is based on the original play, "Pardon My Glove" by Zoe Akins. It was adapted for the screen by Waldemar Young and Herman J. Mankiewicz. According to the fascinating plot, Bancroft, having attained a moderate amount of wealth, decides that he now needs social position. He makes a play for Mary Astor, young society matron. But now comes the villainy, purveyed by Stanley Fields, a racketeer labor agitator, and the critical moments finds Bancroft with a big decision to make. He must choose death for his own little boy or for the child of the woman he loves. It doesn't take the mighty George long to decide that momentous crises are best overcome by the fistful method, and he plunges into the battle with Fields and his toadies with telling and stirring effect

UP FROM LITTLE JIM

WHEN the corner stone of the new Epworth M. E. church is sealed into place Sunday afternoon the act of sealing it will mean far more than the mere tying in of another stone into this handsome house of worship. It means far more than just the corner stone of a new church for it will link the "Little Jim" of the past with the present day church organization.

In the hearts of some of the older members of the church there cannot help but be a twinge or two of sadness as they see the old church passing. But those twinges of sadness can be assuaged with the joy of seeing a newer, grander Epworth, built to accommodate the needs of the church for the next fifty years, located in a spot that will stand the church out before the world in all the dignity it commands.

The sealing of the corner stone will be the sealing of the new church building, all the sacrifice, the love, the loyalty and the devotion of "Little Jim". Without these the building can be nothing more than a pile of stone. With these, the new Epworth will go on and on, serving the Master with increasing faithfulness, building character and teaching the tenets of the "Man of Galilee".

As the corner stone of the new church is swung into place tomorrow, The News rejoices with the members of the church organization and with them hopes for a future that will be a fitting superstructure upon the foundation laid by those Christian men and women, who in 1874, established Epworth Methodist Episcopal church.

BUILD NOW

Former President Coolidge is preaching home-ownership and home-building, arguing that now is a favorable time for the latter with building material prices lower than for many years and labor plentiful everywhere and available at "cut prices" where unemployment is acute.

Residential building has fallen to 50 per cent of the volume attained during the recent construction boom period. Factors in this radical decline are overconstruction, unemployment, business depression and the high cost of building.

Since most of the country's economic ills today are due to over-production, which is another way of saying under-consumption, there is no better way for the individual to contribute to the upbuilding of a new prosperous state than by building a home. Money invested in construction is distributed over the widest area, engaging many tradesmen, keeping factories, mills and quarries in operation and putting idle land to work. The home-builder is the employer of unskilled labor, masons, carpenters, plumbers, electricians, decorators, roofers, steamfitters, landscapers, architects, painters, factory and quarry labor, truckers, bankers and real estate brokers, all of whom are consumers.

Let not America and Americans detach the sentimental from the home and home-building, for the home still remains one of the foundation stones of our civilization, but just now emphasis may rightly and safely be placed upon its economic value in times of depression.

ACHIEVEMENT

Ratification of the naval treaty by the senate means the redemption by the Hoover administration of all the major promises made by the Republican party in the last presidential campaign. The party and its leader have kept faith with the millions of voters who expressed their faith in them by the ballot in 1928.

A few of the great accomplishments are reduction of taxes collectable this year to the extent of $160,000,000, enactment of the tariff law, creation of the farm board with increased protection for agricultural products, approval of the French debt settlement, transfer of prohibition enforcement to the department of justice, authorization of new federal prisons and revisions of air mail contracts on a more liberal basis. Moreover, the administration has done everything within its power to counteract economic laws that have enforced the business depression that has marred the present regime at Washington.

When the Republican party makes promises to the people it keeps them. That is why it has been in power with comparatively brief exceptions for 70 years. It has made a good fight for the well-being of the nation as its leaders and representatives have seen it.

Quake, Gale, Tidal Wave.
Editing Coolidge.
Mr. Borah In Reverse.
She Shot The Wife.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE (Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn. Inc.)

Already weakened, partly demolished by terrible earthquake shocks, many houses, palaces and churches in Naples were leveled Thursday afternoon by a severe gale, adding to the terror and loss of life. Then came a tidal wave driven by the gale.

King Victor Emmanuel started for Naples as soon as the first earthquake shock came. A dispatch from Rome suggests that Pope Pius XI himself will make a tour of the stricken regions to reassure the terrified inhabitants.

After repeated earthquake shocks, with Vesuvius blazing menacingly in the background, a hurricane sweeping the city, thousands injured, 2,000 dead, no wonder the people are frightened.

Calvin Coolidge wrote a history of the United States in 500 words, to be engraved on a mountainside in South Dakota. Mr. Borglum, sculptor carving the mountain, changed the text. Mr. Coolidge disowned it and will probably write another.

You feel as though you had read of Moses coming down from the mountain with the Ten Commandments and Borglum changing the wording, possibly leaving out the word "NOT."

Politics in the fall will be mixed. Two years ago, Senator Borah, his noble mane shaking, fire in each eye, was telling the West:

"Elect Herbert Hoover, and see what HE will do for the farmer."

This fall the West will see Senator Borah, not quite so fiery, telling the farmers that Farm Board relief for farmers, in the language of the day, is a "flop."

The administration and Mr. Leage, head of the Farm Board, have done their best. They bought 69,000,000 bushels of the 1929 wheat crop "to stabilize prices."

If an individual did that it would be a record.

When a man corners grain, he does it secretly. Uncle Sam did it openly. Wicked board of trade men stopped gambling in wheat, began building grain elevators to provide space for wheat. They knew Uncle Sam would not sell.

As a result of "farm relief," wheat has dropped to its lowest level in 16 years.

Lady Owen, in Paris, rich, titled woman, fell in love with Dr. Gastaud. He, she says, reciprocated until she lent him 100,000 francs. Then he stopped reciprocating, went back to his wife and, only the vernacular describes it—gave Lady Owen "the air."

Lady Owen, thereupon, shot the wife, Mme. Gastaud, three times, principally in the stomach.

Smoking gold-tipped cigarettes rapidly, Lady Owen expressed indignation surprise when the police refused to set her free. Who can read the heart of woman?

Why shoot the poor wife instead of shooting the "air giver?" All through the ages women have protected men and blamed each other.

Standard Oil of California, of which K. R. Kingsbury is president, announces that it will make no more gasoline than it can actually sell, and what is more important, that it will not sell anything to dealers that try to take away the business of their competitors by rate cutting.

The so-called "bootleg" dealers are outlawed by Standard Oil.

If other companies follow the example of Standard Oil, the bootlegging business will be a thing of the past.

It's a Wonder He Did Not Wait Until It Had Been Put Into the Form of a House and Saved the Time And Trouble of Building It.

Dear Sir: Just another of our own "little success stories."

Early in youth Throckmorton Q. Hackbutt showed signs of developing into a humorist. He would pine away by the hours jotting down little ditties, instead of pondering on his lessons. His parents characterized it as talent—but others had different opinions.

Meandering through high school he edited the papers and Throckmorton's sweat band was increased several inches in girth. Once he had a contribution published in an eastern magazine and Throckie's wrist was dislocated from waving the remittance around the campus. Then, he, came graduation and Hackbutt decided to enter the realm of literature and knock the editors back in their swivels in stupefying amazement.

Scene two years later:

"Take this letter," said Rufus Q. Gonickoff of the Gonnie Nut, Bolt and Screw Co., to his office help. "And listen, Mr. Hackbutt, use the dictionary a little bit more—that last letter had five bulls in it."

"Yes, sir," said Throckmorton.

KARR TOONIST.

At the Democratic state convention in Iowa the United States senator suggested the adopting of a resolution demanding the state regulation of the sale of liquor with a new definition of intoxicating beverage. The national scandal of prohibition enforcement was jumped on with both feet by the Dems. Now you have another reason for "Why is a Democrat?"

ATLANTIC CITY—Vexed over a 100 per cent discrepancy between the pay which was promised her and the pay she received, the right half of the Siamese twin whisked off her skirt, uncoupled the spring which attached her to her partner, blackened the manager's eye, walked out and began tearing down the sign which stated that she and her sister were the only original Siamese twins.

For some time Dr. John Foster has been telling us about the great vegetables he has been raising. We have always treated his boasts with more or less indifference, which is the worst way one can treat such things. What was our surprise last evening when he brought to our home a basket of tomatoes as big as coconuts, heads of cabbage and a quantity of strawberries. If he had brought along a shunk or a slab of s. b. we could have had a Mulligan stew or a scotch or less Hungarian goulash. He sure put it over on us with our tomatoes just about in blossom, no cabbage and no strawberries. The doctor sure is some agriculturist along with the other nice things he is.

Letter to the Editor

Sir: I note that a federal judge has decreed that whoever knows of a friend, neighbor or relative who possesses liquor for beverage purposes and does not report the fact to government authorities is a felon. At our last party we sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." We all had a felon feeling for felons.—L.

There are times when women get court orders compelling their husbands to pay them so much a week alimony they insist on the husbands being kept in jail because they do not pay. It looks at times as if they would rather see them in jail than get the weekly allowance.

"Are you positive the defendant was drunk?"

"Well, your honor, I saw him put a penny in the patrol box and then he looked up at the court house clock and roared. 'Heavens, I've lost 12 pounds.'"

Dear Sir: Just another of our own "little success stories."

Early in youth Throckmorton Q. Hackbutt showed signs of developing into a humorist. He would pine away by the hours jotting down little ditties, instead of pondering on his lessons. His parents characterized it as talent—but others had different opinions.

Meandering through high school he edited the papers and Throckmorton's sweat band was increased several inches in girth. Once he had a contribution published in an eastern magazine and Throckie's wrist was dislocated from waving the remittance around the campus. Then, he, came graduation and Hackbutt decided to enter the realm of literature and knock the editors back in their swivels in stupefying amazement.

Scene two years later:

"Take this letter," said Rufus Q. Gonickoff of the Gonnie Nut, Bolt and Screw Co., to his office help. "And listen, Mr. Hackbutt, use the dictionary a little bit more—that last letter had five bulls in it."

"Yes, sir," said Throckmorton.

At the Democratic state convention in Iowa the United States senator suggested the adopting of a resolution demanding the state regulation of the sale of liquor with a new definition of intoxicating beverage. The national scandal of prohibition enforcement was jumped on with both feet by the Dems. Now you have another reason for "Why is a Democrat?"

For some time Dr. John Foster has been telling us about the great vegetables he has been raising. We have always treated his boasts with more or less indifference, which is the worst way one can treat such things. What was our surprise last evening when he brought to our home a basket of tomatoes as big as coconuts, heads of cabbage and a quantity of strawberries. If he had brought along a shunk or a slab of s. b. we could have had a Mulligan stew or a scotch or less Hungarian goulash. He sure put it over on us with our tomatoes just about in blossom, no cabbage and no strawberries. The doctor sure is some agriculturist along with the other nice things he is.

You can say one thing for the racketeers. They don't call themselves racketeers.

It's always a good plan even when you are working for some one else to have regular office hours as the boss may not like you taking more privileges than he does.

Letter to the Editor

Sir: I note that a federal judge has decreed that whoever knows of a friend, neighbor or relative who possesses liquor for beverage purposes and does not report the fact to government authorities is a felon. Laugh! That's the advice of social workers, doctors and scientists. Laughter isn't just an expression of pleasure. Many of the things which we laugh at would cause an annoyance or pain if we did not laugh.

When we laugh we breathe more deeply, take in more oxygen. It's good for the body and good for the mind. Don't hold back on laughter. It's a habit for health. And laughing about something may keep you from crying about it.

Dear Hint or Dint: It is amusing to note the reasons advanced by our lady friends for obtaining divorces. A woman appealed to the judge to "turn her loose" from hubby because he freely told her he loved another woman.

"Is that the only reason?" queried the judge.

"Oh, well," softly continued the applicant, in after thought, "he used to choke and beat me, but it was the other that hurt."

She was given her freedom.

German Dictatorship Linked With Young Financial Plan

Lack Of Two-Party System Emphasized In Discussion Of Crisis Brought About By Conflict Between Executive And Legislative Forces

Temporary dictatorship for Germany under constitutional provision turns American attention to the present condition of representative government in that country. The conflict between the executive and legislative departments is based upon financial measures which the Reichstag failed to approve, with the result that Chancellor Brüning, in agreement with President von Hindenburg, has decreed their enactment and ordered the legislative body dissolved until after the fall elections. Bloes instead of a two-party system are blamed for the situation, which revolves about the taxation intended to meet the requirements following adoption of the Young plan and final reparations settlement.

"The legislation over which the controversy has arisen," according to the CHARLESTON EVENING POST, "relates to the finances of the nation and is regarded by Chancellor Brüning and by President Hindenburg as essential to carrying on the government. Opposition comes principally from the Socialist party, which appears to have a very powerful hold in the country and may acquire control of the government."

"Germany has made great strides toward recovery from the effects of the war, but it is a long way yet from economic stabilization, and it will require able and courageous statesmanship to bring the nation through the difficulties that lie before it."

Discussing the budget program which is "the immediate cause of the stir," the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL says: "The importance of these bills is that they reduce expenses, increase government revenue by imposing on small incomes, (incomes of $2,000 and more), and in general constitute the government party's effort to meet the recent criticism of S. Parker Gilbert, American agent general for Allied reparations. Mr. Gilbert stressed the fact that Germany, by improvident methods of government, might be unable to pay what she has agreed to pay in the way of reparations."

The Constitution in Germany will afford the people a chance eventually to assert themselves. But in the meantime, the German people are learning that powers given to a President for one purpose may be used for political purposes for another.

Referring to the query in the government's election proclamation, as to whether "the people wish to withhold from the government what is necessary for regulating finances, maintaining German economic life and safeguarding social obligations," the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR comments: "Well-wishers of Germany both at home and abroad, must confidently hope that the question will be answered in terms representative of the government's viewpoint. As was only recently elucidated by S. Parker Gilbert, upon his retirement from the agent-generalship for reparations, Germany has been living beyond its fiscal income. To put its economic house in order is the sole purpose of the program upon which President Hindenburg now goes to the country. American investors, with hundreds of millions of dollars risked in German civic and industrial enterprises, have no small stake in the outcome."

Recalling that the Nationalists were defeated in their opposition to the reparations settlement, the SALT LAKE DESERT NEWS states: "But the Nationalist party is strong in the Parliament, and with such Socialist alliances, it has been able to effect, it is practically in a command position, and can make or unmake the Reich's fiscal policies."

There is warrant in law for the dictatorship, but no slight odium will attach to those who shall be considered responsible for creating it."

Taking up the provision in the German Constitution which authorizes the government to decree legislation while dissolving the legislative body, the ATLANTA JOURNAL voices the opinion: "Recourse was had to this authority in 1923 by President Ebert when Bolshevism bared its fangs in the midst of an acute financial depression. The extraordinary power then was used with wisdom and effectively: normal conditions soon were restored and the usual process of government resumed. So it is likely to be in the present instance. The country has confidence, and confidence well deserved, in von Hindenburg. He has proved faithful to the republic, as well as an instinctive believer in order. The problem may be merely postponed, however, unless the new Reichstag is of a different complexion and of a more workable nature than the one just dissolved. The four hundred and eighty-nine members of that body were divided among no fewer than fourteen diverse political parties. The ministry represented a coalition, but one which was not strong enough to carry out a program nor adaptable enough to agree upon a policy. Such are the difficulties and the hazards when party government is divided among more than two or three groups."

The object lesson as to the two-party system is emphasized by the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, while the CHICAGO TRIBUNE, advising that "Germany, whatever the need for this action, is taking chances with the only power with which the English preserved their Parliament and developed their democracy—the power to control taxes." The WORCESTER TELEGRAM, observing that "some insist that the dictatorship paragraph in the German constitution can legally be used only in connection with war or threat of war, or similar emergency," concludes that "it is not easy to devise a system of government under which the people will rule, but under which in various crises, the people will be ruled temporarily by a master with absolute power."

As to the effect of the dictatorship, the ALBANY EVENING NEWS says: "Von Hindenburg can be trusted. He has made a record in office that shows him as great a republican now as he was monarchist in the days of the Kaiser." The AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, however, holds the opinion that "in the first clash of national interest it will be the same old Germany, marching with a dictator on its shoulders." The KANSAS CITY STAR maintains that "it is not a wholesome situation, but is probably better than to allow the financial stability of the country to be further endangered at a time when the Young Plan has just given Germany full responsibility for her reparations payments." The HARTFORD TIMES calls it "a severe test of representative government."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

YES—BUT.

From commencement day at Yale in 1905, until a day in June, 1930, Eugene B. Milburn, now an oil lease operator, and John R. Kennedy, capitalist, had not seen one another, though their trails had repeatedly crossed on travels around the world and they had been on the verge of meeting several times.

But from adjoining gardens of homes in the "Outpost," a Hollywood residential district, the two happened to see one another last week, recognized each other, rushed to clasp hands, and discovered that, coincidentally, each had just closed a purchase of one of the adjoining homes, among the largest Mediterranean types in the development.

The two "old grads" now are planning to hold a number of Yale reunions.

These two may have been members of the Class of Yale '05, but that Class in common with other classes graduated at Yale has had a three year, a six year, a ten year and thereafter a regular five year Reunion at New Haven during Commencement Week. '05, therefore, had Six big Reunions, including the most famous of all Reunions, the Twenty-fifth, held last June.

No Yale man ever fails, if he is well and strong, to meet with his classmates on these occasions. There were seven out of eight living members of '65 present this year, the Sixty-fifth Reunion of that class.

Milburn and Kennedy must have had a poor time at Yale.

(International News Service)
LAMBERT ST. LOUIS FIELD. July 26.—Outriding a stiff gale which blew up late yesterday the "Greater St. Louis" endurance plane piloted by Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brien swooped serenely into the sky today.

At the first sight of the wind laden clouds the endurance plane dipped low like a swallow over the field sending in a hurry call for more gas. With a 42-mile gale whipping through the struts 75 gallons of fuel was transferred. The two former holders of the world's endurance title passed their 120th hour in the air at 7:11 a. m. this morning.

They expect strangers to know all about everything they say without explanation. I'm beginning to believe it is impossible to really make a friend of any insect. I guess insects are all alike—they just make believe they like you."

"Oh, come now, that's not fair!" said a strange voice from the ground. "Take that back, Peter. All we insects are not just alike. When you say no insect never proves a true friend, haven't you forgotten Biffer, the Gun-Beetle?"

Peter stared at the ground, then he felt down and found himself face to face with a great flat head much too large for the body it was attached to. How different from Fly's eyes were the eyes of this newcomer. Tiny the latter's were, and shiny-like points of fire, and above them curled antennae as crooked as the horns of some cow. "Who could the stranger be? Friend, that much was certain. The voice was so pleasant. Peter, out of politeness, answered the newcomer's question.

"Forgotten Biffer Gun-Beetle, sir? I should say not. And I remember Dragon-Fly, and Sir Butterfly, in the bargain. I am sorry that you overheard me saying something I didn't mean. My mistake! You'll forgive me, sir, won't you?"

Textile Industry Shows Falling Off

Wool Consumption Is Lowest Since Collapse Of Market In 1920

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—A substantial decrease in the activity in the textile industry is indicated by the fact that the consumption of foreign and domestic cotton by American mills during June was only 405,181 bales as compared with 473,917 in May and 569,414 in June, 1929, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Producers of standard cotton cloths curtailed production in June ten per cent under May, 34 per cent less than the peak production, and 27 per cent less than the average for the past two and one-half years. The ratio of sales to production changed little in June compared with May. However, shipments declined, leaving an increase of 35 per cent in stocks. Reports so far received indicate even further curtailment in July production.

The figures for wool consumption in May were the lowest for that month since the collapse of 1920, and the trend of the year continues sharply downward. Reports upon machinery activity continue low for narrow looms, and those engaged on carpets and rugs, but showing encouragement for wide looms, according to the board's survey.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THROUGH-GOING

One day in the Smokey Mountains of East Tennessee the writer came upon a very old man sitting by the roadside. Nobody hurries in the Smokies, and so we had a talk. The old man spoke gently and with feeling of the recent loss of his wife. They were both sturdy mountain people used to hardship, knowing little of the ease and comfort of the world outside. One sentence in the old man's talk was never to be forgotten. "My wife" said the mountaineer, "was what I call a through-going woman."

Well, there was philosophy enough and inspiration enough in that remark to take a man or woman through life in strong, courageous fashion. All too often things don't turn out the way we had hoped. The road is steeper and harder than we thought it would be. Are you a through-going man? Are you a through-going woman?

TAKING SOMETHING ABROAD

This summer thousands of Americans are traveling in Europe or getting ready to go there. They are thinking much of routes, clothes, and good times to come. Few are thinking about the age-old history of European countries. Comparatively few are thinking about the thrill and fascination of historical spots. There are castles and cathedrals, ancient battlefields and roads of destiny. Most people go abroad unprepared to bring away much. They go not realizing they can bring back only what they take in the mind.

SETTLING SOON

The American Arbitration association is at work year in and year out setting up boards of arbitration for the settling of disputes among business men and business concerns without recourse to the regular courts and their long and expensive delays. For many business matters these boards, made up largely of business men, have proved a great improvement on the regular law courts. More power to the Arbitration association. Too many folks in court now, too much red tape, too many laws.

IDLENESS THE CURSE

Go through a large prison, as this writer has done more than once. The saddest, most tragical, sight is not the death chamber. The most depressing place to visit is not the hospital. The thing most hopelessly sad is the sight of men sitting quietly in cells—in idleness. There is no curse like the curse of idleness. How unimportant is the kind of work when you are confronted with nothing to do? How thankful we ought to be so long as there is one brick to lay above another, so long as we can use, at least part of the time, the mind and the body we were brought into the world to use. Better die soon though it may be, from overwork (if that is possible) than live long and be idle.

Many Ministers Sent Into Field From Epworth M. E.

In its long history, Epworth M. E. church has done more than merely preach the gospel, it has sent into the ministry many men, and into the missionary and religious field men and women who today are serving in different quarters of the globe.

Among the ministers and evangelists who have gone out from Epworth are the following: C. C. Crill, George Robinson, Jesse Dean, Fred Reynolds, Harry Maitland, C. C. Campbell, Thomas Campbell, F. L. Wimer, Robert Thomas, Norris A. White, Roy Thompson, Thomas Francis and Robert Withers.

Missionaries and religious workers: Margaret Smith, May Kelly, Rachel McConnell, Gertrude Hanks, William Potter.

a history that glimmers with the gems of service and sacrifice. The incipient movement for the organization of the church was made in 1874 by a committee composed of John F. Reynolds, Samuel Foltz, Milton Raynolds, George C. Rice and Samuel McCready. This committee purchased five acres of ground for $5,000, laid it out and fenced it in for a national holiness camp meeting ground. It was used for this purpose for about 10 years and then gradually pieces of it were sold until there remains in the possession of the church the corner lot where the building and parsonage stand.

Among the prominent camp meeting leaders were John Inskip, J. A. Wood, William MacDonald, Sheridan Baker and E. I. D. Pepper. Bishop Taylor aided in the meetings one summer, and the gifted musician, E. O. Excell, was prominent in leading music.

The meetings that led to the organization of the class were held in the homes of interested parties. In June, 1874, the first class was organized by about 25 people who belonged to the First Methodist church but felt the need of a second Methodist church in the growing city.

First Building in 1875
The first church building was a frame structure erected in 1875, during the pastorate of Rev. J. A. Ward. This was burned about 1884 and was replaced by the present brick building in 1886, when Rev. H. E. Johnson was the pastor. During the pastorate of Rev. H. G. Dodds the building was enlarged, further additions being made during the pastorate of Rev. A. R. Rich. school rooms were added in 1911 when Rev. H. C. Weaver was pastor. The first home occupied by the pastor was part of the camp meeting boarding hall. In 1884 a large frame parsonage was built on Epworth street and the present commodious brick parsonage was built in 1904 under the leadership of Rev. J. A. Parsons. The new church will be the most forward step of Epworth church since its inception.

Detail of New Church
Architects say the Epworth work is somewhat out of the ordinary, inasmuch as the building is being erected on a location different from the site upon which other New Castle churches have been built. The location, bounded by East Washington street and Butler avenue, allows for the construction of an edifice on triangular lines.

The Butler avenue sidewalk is about eight feet lower than the East Washington street walk at the point where the main entrances will be, permitting the East Washington street entrance to the auditorium to be nearly at the grade, whereas the Butler avenue elevation runs along the building midway between the main floor and basement.

In a general way the plan of the church is a "T", with the auditorium of the church extending toward the point of the triangle. As the chancel is located at the point, an opportunity is given to feature the main chancel window.

The Sunday school crosses the right angle to the church proper and permits of two main entrances to the church, entering from each side at the junction of the Sunday school portion with the church. At the Butler avenue entrance a porte cochere entirely of stone will be provided and a drive laid out that will permit entrance from Butler avenue through the porte cochere and around the drive winding back of the church and coming out on East Washington street. The rear section of the property will be used for parking space, accommodating several hundred automobiles.

Sunken Garden Effect
The East Washington street side of the church proper will have a sunken garden effect with a terrace leading down so that the ground around the church part of this side of the building will be of the same level as the Butler avenue side, leaving a greater part of the basement out of ground. The story height in this part is approximately 14 feet and will be used for social activities of the congregation, including a gymnasium, dining room and literary entertainments. For the latter purpose an ample stage is provided with dressing rooms and other equipment. Back of the stage and in the part of the triangle will be a large room for the Men's Bible class, well lighted and having an entrance way directly from Butler avenue. This entrance also furnished access to the social room and the auditorium above.

The remainder of the basement will be occupied with a large, well lighted kitchen with outside rooms and with the beginners' and primary departments located in the wing projecting toward Butler avenue.

The main auditorium is of a handsome design, accommodating on the main floor 600 seats, and will have a balcony seating 120. The chancel arch will be trimmed with Indiana limestone and a large memorial stained glass window with limestone trim forms the background. The area around the walls around the chancel will be finished with oak paneling. All of the side windows in the auditorium are trimmed with Indiana limestone on the outside as well as on the inside, the glass in each case being set directly into the limestone trim.

Grace Chapel
In the rear of the auditorium is the narthex connecting the stair towers and entrances on each side, one from Washington street and the other from Butler avenue. Back of the church proper and opening into it is the Grace chapel, around which is located the women's parlors and numerous Sunday school departmental classes and assembly rooms.
The second and third floors will likewise be in this section of the building, taken up entirely with the various class and Sunday school rooms. Altogether there are 45 rooms in the building devoted to Sunday school purposes.
Fireproof throughout, the church will stand as one of the finest in this section of the state. The general design of the masonry and other structural features is substantial.
The exterior of the church is of Briar Hill sandstone in variegated colors and in random courses. The trim for the belt courses and all-around openings is of saved Indiana limestone, and the effect both in design and color is unusual and pleasing. The roof of the structure is of variegated slate of extra thickness. Plans for the structure and the supervision of erection is being furnished by the W. G. Eckles Company, architects, and the general contract is being executed by the J. Clyde Gilliland Lumber Company; plumbing by Frank P. Andrews and Son; heating by W. J. Bradford Company, and electrical work by the Gilliland Electric Company.

The new Epworth M. E. church will be a splendid edifice, handsome, commodious and modern. But built into the stone and steel and glass of it will be the spirit that has inspired Epworthians to better things since those days back in 1874 when that little band gathered together to erect a house of worship.

Six Yet Living Of The Group Of Ministers Who Have Served Epworth
M. E.

Since the foundation of Epworth M. E. church, back in 1874, there have been sixteen pastors, including the present pastor, Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell. Looking back over the list one finds men who have stood out in Methodism, men who have had vision and ability.

Of the sixteen, seven are living, and the average pastorate has been three years and five months each. The shortest pastorate was that of Rev. J. A. Ward, the first pastor who served but one year. The longest pastorate was held by Rev. C. G. Farr who served seven years. The present pastor, Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell has served since September 1926. The X denotes the pastors now living.

The list of pastors and their term of service, follows:

Marking Of Highways In U. S. Is Virtually Ended, Club Reports

Standard Markers On Routes
Will Facilitate Motor Travel

Erection of standard markers for numbered routes on the United States highway system of close to 100,000 miles of improved roads has been virtually completed and will greatly facilitate motor travel during the present vacation season, according to R. W. Bolsinger, President of the New Castle Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Bolsinger bases his statement on a report received by the national motoring body from the Bureau of Public Roads, which has taken a prominent part in securing the support of state road building agencies in marking highways.

"This system of numbering," he continued, "means that the important interstate highways are generally referred to by their respective numbers in lieu of names, and the confusion as to highways has been largely eliminated."

Ten main East and West routes, designated by multiples of ten, and eleven important North and South routes, numbered 1, 11, 21, 31, etc., up to and including 101, form the basis of the system. It includes not only the important through routes but also many crossovers that connect main routes. The highways on this system reach practically all of the large cities and serve very section of the country. Crossover or branch roads are indicated by three digits such as 290, 141, etc.

The A. A. Club Executive stated that all East and West highways, including their branches, have been numbered; those running North and South with their branch lines have odd numbers. He said that the signs bearing the numbers are of standard size in the shape of a shield, and are usually erected one mile apart.

Petition To Have Marriage Annulled

Floryan Wrona Says That His Wife Had Another Husband
When He Married Her

Floryan Wrona has filed a petition at the probate court's office to have annulled his marriage with Frances Wrona, on the grounds that his wife had another husband living at the time, he married her.

Wrona says that they were married in Warren, Ohio, on the 22nd of June, 1928, and came to New Castle to live, residing on North Cedar street. He afterwards learned that his wife had been married to James P. Bell in November, 1922, and that she had never been divorced from him. Wrona, therefore, wants his marriage annulled.

Former Local Boy Pastor At Corry, Gets Death Threat

Rev. Frank L. Wimer Warned To Leave Town For Activities Against Bootleggers

Has Waged Fearless Campaign Against Liquor Interests For Number
Of Years

Rev. Frank L. Wimer, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Corry, Pa., who has been threatened with death and destruction of the church property by bootleggers because of his activities against them,
is a former New Castle boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wimer of Oakwood avenue.

Rev. Wimer instigated liquor raids against Corry bootleggers a week ago,
which resulted in a wholesale cleanup by Federal agents.

As a result, he has been given ten days to leave town, according to threatening letters received during the past few days. Unless he does, according to the letter, he will be "taken for a ride to Tidouite." The meaning of this obvious, as about a year ago,
two men were taken from Corry to Tidouite, presumably by bootleggers and murdered. The crime has never been solved.

Says Writer is Coward
Rev. Wimer says that he has strong suspicions as to the identity of the letter writer and is not frightened, because he says, "I think the writer is a coward."

Federal and state authorities have been notified of the threatening letter
and are conducting an investigation.
When a boy, Rev. Wimer lived on the East Side and attended Epworth
M. E. church. He is well known here and has many friends who will be interested in his firm stand for clean living in his adopted home of Corry.
Members of his family state that he has always been extremely bitter against the bootleggers in every town in which he has held a pastorate, and that his activities in Corry are no exception.

In the raid made there last week,
for which Rev. Wimer was largely responsible, twenty establishments were raided and about 30 men arrested. All have been held for Federal court and will be given hearings shortly before U. S. Commissioner Enoch Filer of Eric.

Drainage System Kills Mosquitoes

(International News Service)
STONINGTON, Conn., July 26.— Residents of Stonington, R. I., and the eastern Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound have been "sold" on the plan of getting rid of mosquitoes by digging ditches that will drain the worst mosquito breeding areas here.
Dr. W. E. Britton, Connecticut's state entomologist, proved the case to the residents by showing them motion pictures and reading statistics of what other shore places have done,
and the citizens promptly started to raise money for the work.

Texans Flock To Polls Today In Summer Primary

Nominations Today Include U. S.
Senator, Governor And Many State Officers

(International News Service)
DALLAS, Texas, July 26.—Texas democracy, 800,000 strong, marched to the polls today to nominate candidates for United States senator, governor and other state and county executives.

Every controversial issue that has stalked the political arena in the past decade, are entered.

Seven of these aspirants were conceded strong positions as the day of balloting arrived, and a run-off contest is inevitable. The state candidates conducting state-wide campaigns and rated chances of nomination were Ross Sterling, Mrs. Miriam
A. Ferguson, Thomas B. Love, Barry
Miller, Earle B. Mayfield, Clint C.
Small and James Young.

Although the so-called "Hoover-crat" issue was injected into the governor's race with the candidacy of Love, this issue has been overshadowed by local problems and the vote today is not expected to reflect the sentiment of the electorate on the Democratic debacle of 1928.

Mercury Again Starts Climbing

Streams Are Dropping At Rapid Rate With Warmer Weather Of Last Week

After several days of cooler weather
following the rains early last week,
the mercury has again started climbing and yesterday reached a mark of 93, with indications that it will be exceeded today.

While last week's rain temporarily halted damage to farm crops unless more rain falls shortly, serious damage may result.

Pasture in the rural districts has been hard hit, fields of grass having practically burned up. Many farmers are already feeding hay to their cattle.

Following the rain last week, which halted the drop in local streams, they have fallen rapidly, the Shenango river having dropped seven inches
since last Saturday, and yesterday,
the decline was more than an inch.

Correct this sentence: "Yes," said
the man, "I listen to the gossip my wife brings home, but it doesn't interest me."

Flying Squadron Is Ready For Emergencies

Organized in 1926, the Flying Squadron, every member of which is an expert swimmer and a recognized Red Cross Life Saving Corps member, is ready for any water emergency which may occur in the city.

The flying Squadron is headed by Jack Herbert, head of the Red Cross
Life Saving Corps, and the members are located in various camps about the county or are available at their homes here in New Castle.

During its existence, members of the Flying Squadron have rendered valuable assistance when called to various pools and beaches throughout the county, and on other occasions
have been successful in recovering bodies of drowned persons from the water.

In spite of the fact, that announcements in regard to the Flying Squadron have been published from time to time, there are many persons who are ignorant of the existence of the organization, and in an emergency neglect to try and get in touch with its members.

Promptness in calling members of the Squadron may result in the saving of a life, and residents of the community are urged to clip the list of names and keep it handy, where they can get it on a moments notice.
Especially is this true in case of campers along streams in the county, where drowning accidents

may occur.

Those already enrolled in the Flying Squadron are as follows:
Jack Herbert, Y. M. C. A. Phone 215.

Jack Hulme, New Wilmington,

Brown Will Not Give Up Contest For Luzerne Vote

Francis Shunk Brown Will Continue Fight To Test Luzerne Ballot Legality

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., will not drop his battle over the legality of the Luzerne county ballots cast in the recent primary, it was learned from a semi-official source today. It had been reported that at a conference between Brown and William S. Vare, Philadelphia G. O. P. chieftain, the former had been asked to withdraw his supreme court appeal against the Luzerne county ballots.

In many quarters, it was pointed out Brown's battle was increasing the popularity of Gifford Pinchot, the successful Republican gubernatorial nominee, and a cessation of the battle would give the proposed Liberal party candidates a better chance of victory over the former governor.

Concurrent with the reports that Brown might drop his appeal came the rumor that the Philadelphia Republican faction is seriously considering giving full support to the wet leaders of the proposed Liberal party ticket. This report followed a second conference by Vare this time with D.
Dawson Coleman, vice president of the Pennsylvania Association against the prohibition amendment.

WONDERFULMYSTERIOUS MAGNETIC MAGNIFICENTAura Of Romance Lingers
Around Log Cabin Standing
In Outskirts Of This City

There is everything romantic about the quaint little log cabin. It has stood there on Cascade street for over eighty years and has been passed by, by the busy world, almost unnoticed. Romantic because of its very unobtrusiveness. Romantic because of its association with a generation of hardworking pioneers.

It has stood facing the heart of the city. It has seen thro-fares and a busy flow of modern conveyances branch from the heart. It has witnessed the cutting of thousands of trees, the erection of modern homes, the growth of a city.

For itself, time stopped long ago. A log cabin just gets so old and then stops. The structure on Cascade St. is in its eighty-fifth year and is almost as strong and rugged as the day it was completed. It has been occupied for the past twelve years by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Brooks. Before Mr. and Mrs. Brooks made their residence there, it was occupied by George Trimble. Trimble had lived there for 40 years. It was his birthplace.

The house, it is said, was built by Alec Long with the assistance of neighbors from a radius of several miles. The logs came from the plot of ground where the cabin stands. They were made to fit together by pieces of stone and by wooden pegs wedged between them. The original floor of walnut is in a very good condition. The original "clab-board" roof was replaced with a shingle roof several score years ago.

and an addition was built at the rear. Vines have crept up the sides of the old building until the log sides are almost hidden. But parts of the log sides are not hidden by vines and these reveal the age secret and entwine around the lodging an air of quaintness and romantic visions of the past.

"Stude" President Amazes Crowd With Hill Climbing Ability

A new Studebaker free wheeling President "8" roadster, driven by Tony Gulotta, famous racing pilot, performed an almost unbelievable feat yesterday when Mr. Gulotta, with 19 passengers, started from a dead stop at the intersection of Falls and North Jefferson streets and topped the North Jefferson street hill in high at 25 miles per hour. The total weight of the 20 men aboard was 3,151 pounds. The roadster used was a strictly stock car throughout.

Tony Gulotta, who visited the local Studebaker dealer yesterday, is making a tour over many states demonstrating the miracle of modern motoring—free wheeling, exclusive in New Commander and President Eight models by Studebaker.

About 135 persons had the privilege of a demonstration in the President "8" roadster yesterday, which was arranged by the Barnes-Snyder Motor Co., local Studebaker dealers, 122 North Mercer street.

which was an event of Wednesday evening.

On Memories

"HAPPY DAYS THAT WON'T COME AGAIN."

"Long ones an' long memories go hand in glove. In ever community there's some old sour-buddy that kin recall when some well-to-do citizen wuz accused o' 'horse stealin' in early life or some loved an' sweet faced grandmother was talked about in her early days" writes Prof. Brock Brit, popular Chautauqua star, an authority on edible fungi in the current issue of the Weekly Silphorn. Further along he adds, "Learn to ferget. Life is filled with the bitter an' the sweet, with the bitter largely predominatin'. Let's train our minds to retain only the sweet an' the bitter, the bitterest pills o' life come after the flapper an' bandit age—after youth has fled, an' the really serious problems o' life to crowd us. The joys an' sorrows of childhood an' youth are indelibly stamped in our memories, but time, the great softener, makes us smile as we recall 'em in the evenin' o' life. The odor of the rose geranium, the fushia nosegay, awakens memories of old happy days back in the mist o' years, days of hope an' youth. Whether it wuz the first kiss in a side bar buggy, or a first quarrel in the dark shadows o' the old gas works, the rose geranium seems to have been ever near to perfume the occasion. 'Tis the whiff o' some long forgotten hair oil 'I recall some pleasurable event when the heart wuz young an' indiscriminate. A nibble at a peppermint drop'll often wuz us back to the old time musty parlor with its Brussel carpet an' family album, an' turned down lamp. An' nothin' makes us live over again, the wonderful, carefree, barfooted days like takin' a generous bite of an Indian turnip. The tingle o' sleighbells never fails to awaken memories o' the glorious winters of our youth, snowy landscapes, cold gittin' moonlight nights, taffy pullin' an' ringin' laughter. All o' these sweet memories are worth preservin' but the sorry trials, rebuffs, an' disappointments that set in when the joyous illusions of youth vanish should be forgotten as often as they bob up an' not allowed to sadden an' poison our lives. No matter how well ordered our lives may be we're goin' to have to swallow a lot o' bitter pills, so let's swallow 'em gracefully even if we git the reputation o' bein' stolid an' unfeelin'. Recallin' all o' the calamities an' sorrows o' the past an' how insurmountable they seemed at the time, let our motto be "This too'll pass away," no matter what sore of a problem comes along. Too many lives are dominated by unpleasant soul destroying memories. Let us ferget that we ever knew some people that we ever got gipped. Let's make the best o' things we can't change or dodge. There's bound to be somethin' pleasant come along now an' then to snug away among the memories of our childhood an' youth, the golden memories o' mud pies, red top boots, Indian turnips, frosty sleigh rides, first kisses, Hoyt's German Cologne, damp, mildewed parlors an' side bar buggies."

shocked when I ordered some lemon pop here in the hotel, to find that I was charged sixty cents for it. "But why order lemon pop?" asked the reporter, toying with the receiver of the room service telephone. "Because I am fond of lemon pop, that's why," replied the visitor with some show of asperity. "Ah," sighed the parched reporter sadly, "That makes all the difference in the world. Let me see, you were saying . . . ?"

NEW YORK, July 25.—Julius Tannen, the comedian, was feeling rotten the other day and consulted a doctor who put him on a diet of fresh, green vegetables. He explained the regimen, in detail, to Nick, the Greek waiter at the Nose Bag, where he lunched every day. "I'm so sorry, Mr. Tannen," said Nick, "but the only fresh, green vegetables we have are pineapples, and they're canned."

NOT THAT IT MATTERS
Some bulgy-browed savant has listed the "Great Novels of All Time." There are sixty of them, according to the Doc's computation and as an indication of what the list is worth (remember, they are the Great Novels of ALL TIME) the Brother includes stuff by Bennett, Dreiser, Lawrence Maugham and Galsworthy. ALL TIME is a long time. Take Galsworthy, for example:

If he ever manages to scale the wall of Oblivion and perches there in his celestial pajamas alongside Shakespeare, Dante, Cervantes, Chick Sale and Eddie Guest, it'll be because of the yeoman service he rendered Simon & Shuster in unloading "Trader Horn" on an unsuspecting public.

The Pastor, being a member in good standing in the Innocent By-standers' League, went out and, on Galsworthy's say-so, paid hard-earned dough for a copy of "Trader Horn." The volume still decorates the Etruscan bookshelf in the study and is retained as a deterrent, to be contemplated in odd moments when The Pastor gets delusions of infallibility. Thus, referring again to the list of "Great Novels of All Time," I raz-berrily repeat:

It's a lot of Trader Horn. Or, to vary it a trifle, and lest we forget:

It's a lot of Simon & Thuster!

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A woman who has spent her time for years doing for others, being charitable, kindly, generous and self-sacrificing, writes that she has refused invitations for so long that she is no longer invited places. She is lonely and wants friends, but she doesn't know how to go about getting them. She says people have taken it for granted that she and her husband do not want pleasure, but get their happiness only out of working for others. She says her pride is strong. She and her husband have bought a little home and are paying for it, they have good looks but they feel that something is wrong with them and that they should readjust their lives.

It is a shame that a woman who has done so many fine things should be lonely. But I know how it is, people come to you when they want to borrow, and as you say, never pay it back. They come for help and then thanking you kindly, leave you. They take everything you give, thinking very well of you and feeling grateful and then—pass along.

If people have asked you in the past and you refused their invitations, it is not their fault that they don't ask you now. You will have to make it known that you enjoy company and want to go out among them. Previously you indicated that you were too busy. Why don't you entertain and do it nicely, inviting the people you refused in the past? You do need readjustment. Tell your neighbors so. They will help you. There is no reason to feel shy about it. Stop spending all your time doing for strangers.

If your heart is as big as your letter would indicate, you won't have any trouble, but you must make the advances. It is decidedly your move. In her letter the Lonely Lady says: "My husband and I have worked about 16 hours a day for the past 20 years, not that we wanted so much but we wanted to be able to lend a helping hand to others."

Perhaps you have made an obsession of giving, and made yourself into a machine. You say you have brought six girls into your home and taken care of them until they could get on their feet.

Wonderful! But you and your husband owe something to each other. You can do those things on the side without becoming a monomaniac. It will be a little struggle to overcome habits of 20 years but it is high time you began. Evidently you see your mistake, so that is half the battle won. Good luck!

Approval Of Naval Pact Proves People Still Control Senate

Faith In Disarmament Program Also Shown By Rapid Action On London Pact

Action Of Congress Forecasted Because Of Lack Of Opposition To Measure

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—Passage of the London naval pact through the senate after only two weeks of consideration in the special session proved two things—first, that the people of the country have faith in disarmament programs, and second, that the people still control the senate to a very large degree.

Avoiding any discussion of the merits of the treaty, the writer several weeks ago offered the prediction that the agreement would be ratified by the senate in short order, not because of the presence of any great degree of enthusiastic support in that body but due, rather, to the absence of sufficient active opposition. The results of the special session seem to justify this forecast.

Opposition Wears Out.
Senators who had resolved to vote for the pact, to a large degree, sat back in their seats and permitted the small band of the opposition to wear themselves out. They received many telegrams from back home urging ratification of the treaty. The president had placed his official stamp of approval on the agreement. So they folded their hands, listened to the blasts of treaty opponents, voted "yes" when the final question of ratification was reached and went home well pleased.

There was never any likelihood that the London treaty would be defeated. From the first the public seemed to like it. Members of that great group flooded the offices of senators with letters and telegrams endorsing the pact. The press took up their cry. Members of the senate were urged to remember humanity and to vote for ratification.

Yield To Hoover.
The special session was called, and a senate that had been denying the authority of the president under every pretense remained quietly in Washington to endure the heat and to consider the naval agreement. The president refused to yield the so-called secret papers, and a senate that had been grasping every opportunity to impress upon the public the fact that it would not kneel to the White House smiled and decided that the chief executive did not have to send the secret documents to Capitol Hill unless he felt so inclined. In fact, the bubbling stream of public sentiment urging ratification seemed to have purged the senate of all its contrariness, of its sectionalism, of its tariff enmity.

To one who has full faith in the London pact the implication that various senators voted for the treaty chiefly because the public endorsed it may seem harsh criticism. But the writer happens to have the confidences of certain senators and knows beyond dispute that they were indifferent to the London proposal but approved ratification because of the public back home.

One certain gentleman may be used for example, a man who is militaristic from his shoestrings to the crown of his head. He has been in the senate for many years and is the veteran of numerous legislative battles.

Opponent Leaves Town.

This senator served in the Spanish-American war. But even before that time he was interested in things military and had spent many hours studying them. When he came to Washington his chief ambition was to become chairman of the military affairs committee. He believes in preparedness, first, last and always.

When the special session was called this legislator decided that he did not have a high regard for the treaty. But his people wanted it, so he decided he would avoid conflict by slipping away from Washington and being absent when the final vote on the pact was taken.

He slipped away, but the Republican leaders became worried and sent him a telegram. He came back and voted for the treaty. When asked why he voted for ratification he said: Why not? We spent a lot of the peoples money on the London conference. They seem to want the pact. So why not give it a trial?

Johnson Heads Fight.

Nine senators refused to yield to the demands of the people and fought ratification. "For God's sake, haven't we enough manhood to assert ourselves and to disregard the press?" Senator Johnson of California, leading the fight against the pact, wanted to know. The pressure for ratification being brought by the public has its inception in those who have not even read the treaty, contended Senator Hiram Bingham, Yale professor representing Connecticut in the senate.

And to prove his point Senator Bingham got from a majority of the members of the executive committee representing the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce admissions that they had not read the treaty despite the fact that they had petitioned the president and vice-president to approve it. But when the senator told the senate of his findings, the people back home didn't like it.

Again we point out that what has been said is intended to be no comment upon the merits of the London treaty. The pact has its proponents and its opponents. It may be good and it may be bad.

But the fact remains that naval experts were virtually unanimous in their condemnation of the agreement. The navy fought it; a small group of preparedness senators opposed it. But the people wanted the treaty and they got it—ratified by the senate, signed by the president.

Be the pact good or bad, its ratification was a victory for the people and they should feel encouraged into hoping that in the future the dog will wag the tail instead of being wagged by the tail.

WASHINGTON, July 26—All was quiet on the Republican front today after three months of internal seething that nearly broke into open eruption.

Claudius H. Huston, who might be called a stormy petrel, finally has consented to resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee. His retirement will take place officially on August 7, on which date, by his call, the executive committee of the national committee will meet to select his successor.

With Huston, definitely on the skids at last, interest centered today on the party's choice for the new chairman. So far as could be learned, Senator Simeon Pess, of Ohio, was slated for the job, with Robert H. H. Lucas, collector of internal revenue, in line for chairmanship of the executive committee and active control of the forthcoming congressional bi-elections. This would parallel the situation in the Democratic party wherein John J. Raskob retains the national chairmanship but Jonett Shouse handles Democratic fortunes as guiding genius of the minority party's executive committee.

Another name suggested for the G. O. P. chairmanship was Walter Head, the Omaha banker, but Capitol Hill politicians were lining up behind Pess. The White House was inclined to let the men who are up for election make the final choice.

Definite announcement of Huston's intention of retiring came quite late last night after the elusive chairman had conferred with several party leaders and finally with President Hoover in person.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Children Should Help With Dish Washing

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

THE GIRL OF THREE or four begs you for the opportunity to stand on a chair and wash dishes. At the age of ten or twelve this same child will beg, weep big tears, or fly into a rage to keep from washing dishes.

Why the difference?

The little child wishes to express herself. She wants to be big like her mother. She can best do so by performing some of the things her mother or other adults often do. When she is permitted to do so some of her longings have been satisfied.

The girl of ten or twelve also wishes to grow up but she has changed her notion about what a grown-up enjoys. She discovers that dish-washing is not considered by adults as a diversion, that dishes must be washed following meal after meal, day after day, and that dish-washing time is no respecter of a child's urge to play and do other things of greater momentary interest. She, moreover, comes to the conclusion that it requires no great amount of skill to wash and wipe dishes, and that her mother seems to set the child to washing them just to free herself to engage in other undertakings which call for more dexterity and wisdom and which her daughter is not counted able to perform.

Merely to wash dishes after every meal becomes to the girl no worth-while achievement. She longs to be employed at things that count. Other girls tell her, too, of their dislike for dish-washing and the older members of the family often drop remarks which suggest this chore a drudgery.

But it is good for the education of this girl to do such jobs as she can do well; and, if her mother has no help, it would harm the child's growth of character not to share in some of these home duties.

Nevertheless, except in emergencies, it does not as a rule seem reasonable to assign all dish-washing to the child. Let her help or, better still, let her do them alone, say, in the evening. At any rate, there should be a regular time when she will always do them without being told. If there are other children let each also take his turn. Fights and quarrels will be fewer if each works alone. Group dish-washing by children does not insure "domestic tranquility," although it may help "provide for the common defense."

Aircraft Of Three Nations Ready For Flights Over Ocean

Three Planes, All Of Different Type Await Good Weather At European Ports

Frenchmen Ready For Flight—British Airship And Plane Are Made Ready

(International News Service) LONDON, July 26.—Aircraft of three nations, each of different type and aiming at different goals, were poised today for a take-off across the Atlantic to the United States and Canada.

Inclement weather prevailing over the ocean has put a question mark on the starting of the flights.

In Paris, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte suffered a new setback on their projected flight to America when the weather bureau informed them that "deplorable" weather now current over the ocean would last at least two more days. Their big plane Question Mark has been ready for several days for instant hop-off.

The British airship R-100 was cruising over the north Atlantic today in a 24-hour trial flight as a final test previous to its start for Canada sometime early next week. The dirigible, on its previous test flight, sustained slight injury and was forced to postpone its Canadian visit.

At Hanworth airbase here meanwhile rested a diminutive 40-horsepower monoplane whose owners, Wolf Hirth and Oscar Weller, expect to fly to Chicago over the northern route across the Atlantic by way of the Orkneys, Iceland, Greenland and Newfoundland. The Germans landed last night from Calais, whither they flew from Cologne.

ITALY CARRIES ON AFTER DISASTROUS EARTHQUAKE

With King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Benito Mussolini, in his capacity as minister of the interior, personally supervising relief and rehabilitation work in southern Italy, survivors of the most devastating earthquake since 1908, are beginning to go forward with the depressing task of clearing the cities of debris and making an effort to reorganize their homes. Photos show, top, a view of Naples, which suffered loss of life and heavy property damage; right, the tomb of the poet, Virgil, at Naples, which is believed to have been destroyed; insert, Premier Mussolini and the king.

SCENES IN QUAKE'S PATH IN DEVASTATED ITALY

As Italy buries her 1778 dead and cares for her thousands of injured, rehabilitation work is already under way. Thousands of demolished buildings, great chasms in the earth, and chaotic conditions across southern Italy, tell a graphic story of the most disastrous earthquake since Messina was almost completely buried, in 1908. Top photo shows the chateau of Charles I at Melfi, which is believed demolished, since almost the entire town was destroyed. Below is the famous Capuan gate at Naples and map, shaded area showing the extent of the earth tremor.

How Well Do You Know Geography Of County?

Instead of reaching for a toothpick and glancing over the morning papers after breakfast, the common practice these days seems to be to reach into the hip pocket and bring forth—the road map.
The index finger is put into action tracing the routes leading from New Castle to somewhere or other.
Perchance, while looking at the map you will notice some names of towns within the boundaries of Lawrence county that are unfamiliar, strange as it may seem.
Residents of New Castle who have lived here all their lives and have traveled on every road in Lawrence county scores of times could not tell off hand exactly where Marr, Joyce, Elliot Mills, McCaslin, Rockville, Villa Maria, Possum Hollow, Wurtemburg, Irish Ripple, Altman, Pleasant Hill or Montair are located. Yet, they are all in this county. They are small places to be sure and yet are large enough to have been named. Several are located on the main highways and others are just off the highways on dirt roads.
And here is a bet that very few motorists could drive to the following places located just outside the county—Homewood, Springfield Falls, New Middleton, Bethel, Greenfield, Hermitage, Filers Corners, Charleston, Millburn, Darlington, W. Mayfield, Mount Chestnut, Whitestown, Middle Lancaster, Unionville, Lillyville, Frisco, Eastvale, Cannetown, Unity, Pardoe, Iristown, McDowell Corners, Blacktown, London, Berrys Corners, Nesbit Corners, Jackson Center, Broad Acres, North Liberty, Courtneys Mills, Swamp Root, Jacksville, Stone House, Elora, Euclid, Claytonia, Keisters, Wick, Forestville or Isle?
Now 'fess up, do you know how to get to all those places?

AYE'S HELP TO AIRE ENDS
The "adoption" by Ayr, Scotland, of the little town of Aire in the Ardennes came to an end recently, along with the release of 40 French towns and villages which were "mothered" by British communities. Aire was badly battered during the World war, and the Scotch town helped it get back on its feet, presenting a pair of bells to the new church and adding other gifts. Pleasant relations between the two communities grew into a warm friendship when it was found that "Aire" is one of the old forms of the spelling of "Ayr".

Merger Suit Is Adjourned Until Monday Morning

Attorneys For Both Sides In Sheet & Tube Merger Outline Next Week's Battle

END OF FIGHT NOT IN SIGHT

(International News Service) YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 26.—Dragged to the introduction of proxies and ballots as exhibits, trial of the billion-dollar injunction suit against the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation has emerged from another week of court battle today with the anti-mergerists still on the offensive and the end of the fight nowhere in sight.

Attorneys for the opposing sides in the spectacular case went into their regular week-end huddles today to take a new perspective of the situation and to outline plans for another week's onslaught. Anti-mergerists were expected to resume their attack Monday against the legality of proxies and ballots voted in the Sheet and Tube stockholders meeting April 8 when the merger was approved.

Important Development
A review of the past week's trial shows several important developments. Foremost of which was the admission of Eugene G. Grace that his bonus as president of Bethlehem amounted to $1,623,573 in 1929.

Grace's compensation was admitted into the court records after a bitter two-day battle between opposing attorneys. Bethlehem counsel fought desperately to keep Grace's compensation out of the testimony and the anti-merger attorneys fought vigorously and successfully to have it recorded.

Another development which was regarded as important to the anti-merger case was the testimony of Frank Purnell, president of Sheet & Tube in which he admitted that neither he nor the directors of his company knew the amount of bonus Bethlehem paid its executives at the time Sheet and Tube directors voted to merge.

Anti-merger attorneys had contended that Grace received a "large and unheard of" compensation which they claimed was fraudulently concealed from Sheet and Tube directors.

Later testimony revealed that "incentive bonuses" amounting to a total of $1,432,032 were paid in 1929 by Bethlehem to its six vice presidents.

Illegal Votes
Excepting these highlights, trial of the injunction suit against the merger this past week was consumed mostly with an anti-merger attack against the legality of proxies and ballots. Anti-mergerists claim that enough votes were cast illegally or irregularly to nullify the ratification of the merger last April 8.

The votes of 1,248,400 shares of Sheet and Tube stock, held by more than 90 estates came under fire during the week of the anti-merger attorneys, who charged that in most instances the proper court orders were not obtained for the voting of the stocks and their proxies for the merger.

Anti-mergerists delivered their last blow of the week through Nathan A. Kaercher of Youngstown, who took the witness stand and testified that he was paid $150 a share for 1,000 shares of Sheet and Tube common and $250 a share for the privilege of voting 1,470 shares he held.

Kaercher testified that the deal was made with W. J. Morris, vice president of Sheet and Tube in charge of finance.

City Sweeper Operators State That Automobiles Co-operate With Them

Disposal Plant Operating Good

Louis Genkinger, superintendent of the department of city buildings, stated today that the municipal disposal plant is operating in good style and that there has been no odor in the vicinity this summer. Recently the city installed "bells" where gas leaked and Genkinger said today that approximately 40,000 feet daily is being burned.

If every day is Sunday bye and bye, when will people find time to remove the wreckage?

Auto Accidents Reported To Police

Boys Falls Off Rear Of Automobile But Is Not Seriously Hurt

Carl E. Turner, 838 Arlington avenue, reported to the police last night that he was driving along East Lutton street when a boy, whose name he did not know, fell from the extra tire at the rear of his machine, where he had been stealing a ride unknown to Mr. Turner.

The boy was taken to the New Castle hospital, where it was reported that he was not seriously injured. Mr. Turner did not know of the accident until he arrived home and some one called and informed him of the fact. He then made his report to the police.

Earl T. Faichney, 211 Scott street, reported to the police last night that he was driving south on Lafayette street at Cherry street as Charles C. Atkins of Pittsburgh was going east on Cherry street. Their rear bumpers caught as they were passing and this threw the car of Atkins into the machine of A. M. Flick, 105 Park avenue. Nobody was hurt. All three machines were damaged.

A. A. Cummings of 832 Croton avenue reported that he was enroute south on North Jefferson street as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 7943A was going out of an alley onto Jefferson street and the machines came together. Both were damaged.

Charles H. Beckwith of 522 West Washington street reported that he was enroute north on Wilmington avenue at Leisure avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 2773Z going in the same direction, ran into and damaged his car. The other car was also damaged.

A. W. Bauman, Jr., of 365 Winter avenue, reported that he was going east on Lehigh avenue at Mill street, when an automobile bearing Pennsylvania license 26P40 going west and turning north, ran into his machine. Both were damaged.

LOWEST PRICED EIGHT IN THE WORLD

PRICES on the new Marmon-Roosevelt straight-eight have been reduced as much as $180.

Not a clean-up on obsolete models but an attractive new price on Marmon's new 1930 low-priced straight-eight—introduced last spring.

It is the improved, refined and more luxurious successor to the "first straight-eight in the $1000 field"—the car which set the world's non-stop endurance record, which won the Pikes Peak Climb in its class, which traveled forty-eight states in thirty days with a repair cost of eight cents!

In addition—remember that the new Marmon-Roosevelt is guaranteed for a full year instead of the usual ninety days.

Of course you want your new car to be an eight. A Marmon-Roosevelt is the only time-proved, low-priced eight in the world, backed by four years of building straight-eights exclusively. Try it today for its extra performance, extra comfort and extra value.

18. The Puritans—The Banishment Of Anne Hutchinson

IN 1637 THE PURITAN CLERGY OF MASSACHUSETTS ROSE TO SUPPRESS ANNE HUTCHINSON, WHOSE TEACHINGS HAD CAUSED GREAT DISSENSION IN THE COLONY. SHE WAS CHARGED WITH SPREADING TWENTY-NINE "CURSED OPINIONS."

IN THE FACE OF SO MUCH OPPOSITION, MOST OF HER ADHERENTS DESERTED HER. MRS. HUTCHINSON WAS BROUGHT TO TRIAL AND, ON REFUSING TO RECALL HER "HERESY," WAS BANISHED FROM THE COLONY.

FOLLOWING ROGER WILLIAMS' EXAMPLE, MRS. HUTCHINSON WENT TO NARRAGANSETT BAY. THERE SHE PURCHASED AQUIDNECK ISLAND FROM THE RED MEN AND FOUNDED THE TOWN OF PORTSMOUTH (R.I.).

LATER, THIS COURAGEOUS WOMAN PERISHED IN AN INDIAN MASSACRE IN WHAT IS NOW WESTCHESTER COUNTY, NEW YORK.

Regis Wolff Is Tourney Winner, Long Is Beaten

Regis Wolff Beats Billy Long And Wilson Marks To Win Junior Golf
Title

NEW CASTLE BOY EXTENDS CHAMP

Regis Wolff, Pittsburgh youth, a member of the Highland Country club is the new junior champion golfer of Western Pennsylvania. He supplanted Dennis St. Clair of Kiski as the ruler of the juniors. Wilson Marks of Kiski medalist in the Westmoreland Country Club tourney fell to pieces yesterday afternoon to allow Wolff to ascend the throne.

It was left for a New Castle boy, William "Billy" Long to give the new champion the toughest battle of the tourney in the semi-final bracket. Wolff defeated Long one-up on the final hole. Long turned in a long sensational putt on the last green. Long had fought the champion even for the seventeen holes, and looked for a time as if he would be the finalist with Marks.

Their card—
Wolff, out, 4 6 4 4 4 5 4 5—40
Long, out, 4 5 3 5 4 5 5 4—40
Wolff, in, 4 5 4 5 3 6 5 3 4—39—59
Long, in, 4 6 5 4 4 5 4 3 5—40—80
Wolff came out for the final eighteen holes with the medalist Marks in fine shape and proceeded to shoot brilliant golf. It must be said for Marks that he had shown the form in the title match that he did in the earlier stages of the tourney that he would have won the crown. He played poorly and putted bad in his match with Wolff on the first nine holes was two over par with a 38, while Marks had a 41. The match ended on the fourteenth green, with Wolff taking a 4 and his opponent taking a 4 to halve the hole. But Wilson was five up with four to play and won the match.

Billy Long is going to be heard from this summer in the club championship at the New Castle Field Club. The youngster is good, there is no question about that. He is only a boy, and a few years ago he was just starting to play golf, but today he stands well to become one of the leading golfers of the city.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Long of Shaw street.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Johnny Lehman and Ira Couch, Chicago, crowded their way into the finals of the western amateur golf championship tournament at Chicago yesterday. Lehman conquered Perkins 8 to 7 and Couch defeated McCarty two to one.

Louie Hoon showed us his bass hole last night and while there were no bass deluded into believing that a nice frog would make a delicious meal we happened to run across Mr. Cargell of Neshannock Falls, probably 60, who in his time has been quite a fisherman.

Mr. Cargell told us that 15 years ago he personally put 4,000 trout in the streams that fall into the Neshannock but he hasn't seen any trout. He claims the spot around the falls has been fished too much.

Mr. Cargell stated that most fishermen come around, get on a rock and stand up holding their pole. He pointed out that while fish cannot hear they can see, smell and feel and he believes that the fish in most cases see the fishermen and being wary, flit away.

It was noticed yesterday that someone has removed a rail from the bridge at the stone quarry which makes it rather risky for crossing to the private bridge. The stream is deep in several places and there are big rocks beneath which bass can lay.

Swimming according to Mr. Cargell has a bad effect on the fish. "Once they start swimming they disturb the nests and they leave" according to Cargell. He says there are some mighty nice holes between the quarry and Volant.

Bill Tilden rallied yesterday to defeat Jean Borotra and collect the first point for the U. S. in the Davis cup singles but George Lott proved an easy victim for Henri Cochet in the other match at Paris. The doubles are carded for today.

The immigration board of review Monday gave Primo Carnera a hearing. Primo wants to stay in the United States where he has found lucrative employment as a toppler of heavyweights. He has been here longer than his six months permit calls for.

Carnera has made a request for an extension of time before the permit expires but the Ellis Island officials refused to approve the request. Many of Primo's supporters here are hoping the immigration review board will let him remain here for a time as requested.

Regis Wolff of the Highland country club yesterday defeated Wilson Marks, Kiski prep school champion, 5 and 14 in the 18 hole finals of the W. P. G. A. and is now junior golf king of Western Pennsylvania.

Captain Smith of the New Castle Field club is obtaining the names of the local golfers who wish to play against Grove City in a tournament at Grove City next Wednesday.

With Grant street repaving to start Monday it may be only a few weeks until the Jolly bowl again becomes the center of pugilistic interest. No boxing club is packing them in this summer but the local fans would probably turn out in fair numbers to see a match in two weeks.

Talking to T. C. Richards a few days ago, he said he still remembers when the I. A. A. was organized then remarked: "I'm still interested in baseball though I'm a grandfather." Tony's son Tip is the manager of the Scarrazzo coolers. Tex is the father of T. C.'s grandson.

A field of 17 outstanding horses have been named for the $45,000 Arlington handicap at a mile and quarter. It will be the second richest stake of the Arlington meeting and all go to the post the gross value will be $48,450.

One of the boys would like to see the resumption of fistfights here is Tommy Horcher who fought under the name of Lefty Arnold. He had the fans talking about him and while he lost one bout he won most of all of them and was in a fair way to get somewhere.

Juniors To Play In Tennis Match

Carnegie Playground tennis team will play Robinson-Phillips juniors, Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, on the Robinson-Phillips courts. Six singles and three doubles will be played.

Captain Ray must singles champion of the Carnegie Playgrounds will lead a team of six men, including: Frank Vigiano, James Ross, Patsy Sheldone, Joe Nigro and Guy Ciambotti.

The Robinson-Phillips juniors will include Anthony Conn, Patsy Diana, Sam Bullano, Joe Giordano, and Joe DiMarzio. This will be the first outside competition for the juniors. The Playground team has been in the field competition for several seasons.

Carnera Appeal Is Sent To Mussolini

CHICAGO, July 26.—Promoter Mique Malloy has carried the problem of Primo Carnera right to the doorstep of Benito Mussolini, Dictator of the fighter's home country. Malloy terms the scheduled bout at "the battle of vindication."

SORDS POINTS

He Makes McCarthy Prophecy True

Central Press Sports Cartoonist-Writer
Mr. Joseph McCarthy may now take his bow as a prophet of major league calibre as well as a baseball manager of high standing. Joe's "guess" regarding Arthur John (Bud) Teachout wins the veteran pilot the laurels of a soothsayer.

In spring training camp and during the early weeks of the season McCarthy kept insisting that the young hurler, purchased from Indianapolis, had the goods, but hardly anyone believed him. Bud was having a terrible time. He looked pretty bad down south but showed even worse in regular league games. Enemy batters plastered his offerings so frequently the situation would have been a joke in the Cubs' clubhouse if it had not been so seriously. However, McCarthy kept repeating his prediction regarding Bud.

After a dandy early season sprint the Cubs reached a bad stretch. Rogers Hornsby and several others were lost through injuries. Some of the better Cub hitsmiths seemed to lose their knack of grinding out base hits. Worst of all, that fine Cub mound staff began to falter. Pitcher Hal Carlson, one of McCarthy's best men, died.

McCarthy tossed Teachout and Bob Osborn, who was never used during spring training, into the breach. They delivered brilliantly. Today Bud is well on his way toward winning his spurs as a big league hurler. The tall southpaw, seeming to have gained by his brief experience of adversity, is pitching fine ball, better even than he produced while with the Indianapolis Indians last season.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

While the weather in this part of the world is plenty hot, according to the news dispatches the weather out in the Middle West is something like the well known hinges. All of which makes the running time of the editor of this great family newspaper something for the speed demons to shoot at.

Last Monday morning he left New Castle for Hutchinson, Kansas, which is about 1200 miles on anybody's map. On Wednesday night he arrived there, which would seem to be averaging 400 miles per day for three days, or about 40 miles per hour for a ten hour day.

A post card is to the effect that he had some rough going in the state of Kansas. Must have been a low ceiling or a heavy head wind. A couple of days more and he could have been in California, judging from the way he traveled.

There are two events in the city tomorrow which are well worth anybody's while. In the afternoon the Epworth M. E. church lays its new corner stone, and in the evening Paul Siple talks on the South Pole.

There is a romance and a glamour about that trip of Admiral Byrd and his party that to me rivals the tales of Columbus, Vasco de Gama, Magellan, Marquette, Balboa and the long list of other intrepid pioneers. True we were kept in touch with him daily by the radio, but this but adds to the romance of it. And to hear one of his party describe the trip in person is something well worth while.

The dog has added to his summer laurels. To him with the June bug, recounted several days ago, add on, with a garter snake. We were scouting through the thick underbrush out along the Slippery Rock last night when suddenly the big pup was galvanized into action. He had discovered a snake.

To him this was a new animal. It didn't have legs, it didn't bark, and yet it wagged around a lot and in a moment the fight was on. Just how to attack such a peculiar adversary seemed to bother the pup a lot, but a sock in the snickers with a shovel helped to lay the snake out and the pup did the rest. His score for the season is: Wins, several cats, a June bug and a garter snake. Draws: A battle with a cat that refused to be licked. Losses: That epochal battle with a black and white kitty that smelled so fragrantly.

In another week the New Castle Fair will be ready to go, and you really ought to mark off the week now. This is our fair, yours and mine and all the rest of us in Lawrence county. It brings the city and country closer together, gives the city chap an opportunity to see what splendid things are being done in the way of raising grain and cattle in this county, provides plenty of sport in the horse races, and then there is always the midway with its attractions.

Fairs are like everything else, they must have attendance to thrive. The New Castle Fair is a good fair, clean and wholesome, and entertaining and it deserves your patronage. Let's all get together this year and make it the best year the fair has ever had, so they can at least break even at the box office.

Roosevelt Fliers Up Over 131 Hours

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 26.—Louis Reichers and Robert Black, striving for a new refueling endurance record in a Stinson monoplane, passed the 131-hour mark in the air this morning.

Two hours earlier the refueling plane made its twenty-third contact of the flight, delivering gasoline, oil, the fliers' breakfast, newspapers and telegrams.

South Siders Erect Own Swimming Hole

It isn't made of concrete or fine marble or of anything like that but the kiddies of the South Side do enjoy their "home made" swimming hole which was excavated by several lads headed by Jimmy Ingle. The swimming spot is located in Big Run creek near Big Run street known to the kiddies as the "pipes." Several weeks ago Mr. Ingle worked out an idea that if a dam was constructed the Slabtown kiddies could enjoy swimming.

With the aid of several older boys Ingle and his crew went to work building a dam. In about one week and a half they completed a dam out of stones, dirt, and sacks full of clay and stones. Today one can see a dam that can stand a rather big storm. The dam is not complete yet. The South Siders are after about 250 more sacks so that they can make the dam higher.

Every night the boys take the covers off the pipes and empty the hole. The hole without a dam was about 2 feet deep. Now the water is about 4 1-2 feet deep. As soon as more sacks are located the hole will be made deeper. The lads also constructed a diving board. Daily about 200 to 250 kiddies are seen swimming in this "home made" swimming hole. Although the dam looks awkward it serves the purpose for the South Side youngsters who are strong for swimming.

It took about two weeks to complete the dam and clean out the bottom of the hole so that it would be safe. Today many Slabtown youngsters are made happy through the swimming hole.

Second U. P. School Has Picnic Friday At Lakewood Beach

Members of the Second United Presbyterian Sabbath school enjoyed their annual picnic at Lakewood Beach Friday evening when they gathered to the number of 250 for the afternoon program of sports and picnic dinner.

A program of races and stunts, with a lot of swimming contests took up the afternoon hours and suitable prizes were awarded the winners of the events. C. M. McCormick and Gertrude Johnson were in charge of this part of the program.

At 6:30 the tables with their vases of summer flowers and stacks of good things to eat lured the members and guests to their places and a delicious dinner was served.

The general committee in charge of arrangements included C. R. Baldwin, Mrs. S. R. Wilkinson, Marian Campbell, Mrs. Oscar Alexander, C. M. McCormick, John Syling and Earl Book.

Dealers Urge Buyers To Lay In Coal Now

Prospects of the coal trade this fall and winter based on present economic and other conditions are not of the most reassuring nature, according to statements issued today by Ivor V. Davis of the New Castle Feed and Coal Company.

Mr. Davis has just completed a survey of conditions appertaining to the coal industry from all possible angles including the operator, retailer and their trade.

He found the situation complicated and rather out of the ordinary. His statement follows: I am firmly convinced that retail buying of coal will be delayed by the consumer on account of the uncertain business conditions.

"Now, this condition, together with curtailed production is bound to create a tremendous demand for coal at first approach of cold weather, which will be greater than the available supply of coal.

"Unless the consumer is foreseeing enough to purchase coal at once, he may have difficulty in not only securing coal when needed, but in buying it at fair price. Considerable labor disturbance is evident at the present time and this also may create a very bad situation in the fall and winter."

Imagination is the air of mind—Bailey.
